FAREWELL TO HOME

McKinley's Parting Words to His Neighbors and Friends.

A GREAT DEMONSTRATION

There Was a Great Gathering Composed of Citizens, Soldiers and the Public Generally

Canton, O., March 1.—The president elect left Canton at 7 o'clock this evening, thousands of his fellow citizens bidding them adieu in showers of fireworks and illuminants to their accompaniment hearty cheers. The citizens, together with business men, had arranged for a public demonstration to bid farewell to their beloved and honored citizen and neighbor. The local militia joined in the demonstration and at 6 30, headed by the famous Grand Army band, marched to the McKinley home. As they countermarched Major McKinley, escorting the coming first lady of the land, appeared at his front door. Their appearance was the signal for cheers and right heartily were they given. As they walked from the famous front porch to the coach in waiting there was a frantic effort to obtain a shake of Major McKinley's hand. This was impossible, as the programme admitted of not a moment's delay. Major McKinley paused but a few seconds ere he entered the cab, to raise his hat to the thousands of people, men women and children congregated there. This was the signal for another outburst of applause. Major McKinley then assisted Mrs. McKinley's maid into the cab, following her a second later and the ride to the depot was begun. All along the route, about a mile, the streets were jammed with people, hundreds coming from towns adjacent to Canton to bid the major good bye. Cheer after cheer was given them and many women were seen to weep as the president-elect's carriage, drawn by four richly caparisoned white horses passed along. Major McKinley lowered the window in the cab as he left the house and from the opening waved his hat and Mrs. McKinley her handkerchief to the surging shouting multitude The space about the station was packed for squares by people, who struggled ineffectually to get near the train which was guarded by the companies of militia. As the president-elect and Mrs. McKinley stepped upon the rear platform of their car, the shouts and cheers of the people again arose. Major McKinley seated his wife just inside the door and stepped upon the platform. The cheering was repeated, but quickly ceased as the president-elect raised his hand. His words were :

"My neighbors and friends and fellow citizens : On the eve of departing to the seat of government, soon to assume the duties of an arduous responsibility, as great as can devolve upon any man, nothing could give me greater pleasure than this farewell greeting—this evidence of your friendship and sympathy, your good will, and, I am sure, the prayers of all the people with whom I have lived so long, and whose confidence and esteem are dearer to me than any other earthly honors. To all of us the future is a sealed book ; but, if I can by official act, or administration, or utterance in any degree add to the prosperity of our beloved country and the comfort and well being of our splendid citizen ship, I will devote the best and most unselfish efforts of my life.

"The assumption of the chief magistracy is of such grave importance that partisan ship cannot blind the judgment or accept any other considerations, but for the public good of all to every party and every section. With this thought upper most in my mind, I reluctantly take leave of my friends and my neighbors, cherishing in my heart the sweetest memories and the tenderest thoughts of my old home—my home now and I trust my home hereafter, so long as I live. [Tremendous applause] I thank you and bid you all good-bye." [Another round of applause.]

When he concluded there was a frantic effort to reach Major McKinley, but the train was signalled to start. As it moved out of the station the rain, which had been threatened all evening, began to fall—a fitting benediction to the farewell scenes which had just been enacted.

Quit Work.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1.—All the bricklayers and stone masons of Milwaukee, to the number of about 1,500, quit work this morning to enforce a demand for a forty cent an hour wage scale and eight hours per day. Some of the bosses acceded to the demand and the probabilities are that the new scale will be accepted by all.

The Popular Irish Comedian,

Mr. Dan McCarthy makes his appearance at the Opera House on next Tuesday evening in an entirely new play entitled "The Dear Irish Home," a play which is said to have become immensely popular with his audiences, and one in which his talents are display to the best advantage. The play contains a number of strong dramatic situations and is replete with comedy. Several songs and dances are introduced throughout the action of the play, which is a happy feature, in as much as the "Star" is never so much in his element as when he is singing and dancing for the amusement of his juvenile companions. Mr. McCarsty owes much of his success to his keen desire and earnest effort to please the public, as well as to his undoubted dramatic gifts He does not attemp to give the public an impression of his own superiority by contrast with the effects of a supporting company of mediocre actors. He is winning success through his own positive personal merits, and the general excellence of his production He shows his appreciation of the generous patronage of the public by engaging a stronger company than ever to support him in "The Dear Irish Home".

The company includes the following well known players; Misses Lou Ripley, Marion Stratmore, Mabel Kitts, Edith Baird, Lucille Lieth and Messrs. Harry Booker, P. C. Foy Edward Brennan, Thomas Smith, J. F. Bolger and George Earle.

A Suit About Logs.

Hoover, Hughes & Co., of Philipsburg, have won in the Clearfield courts the suit instituted against them by Ellis Irwin & son. The plaintiffs own certain lands in Goshen township, through which Lick Run flows, and upon which they have certain improvements. The defendents owned a quantity of logs on the head waters of Lick Run. They contracted with John M. Troxel to drive these logs down this run to the Susquehanua river. This suit is brought to recover a toll of twenty five cents a thousand on 25,111 logs of defendants, floated through the lands of Irwins'. The defense was that the defendants were not liable to the plaintiffs, because they did not themselves float the logs, but that they were driven by Troxell, to whom they let the contract for the driving, he to pay the tolls. The court instructed the jury that there could be no recovery from Hoover, Hughes & Co., and a verdict was therefore rendered for defendants

That Hood's Sarsasparilla purifies the blood and relieves a vast amount of suffering is not a theory but a well known fact.

Died of His Injuries.

Huntingdon, Pa., March 1.—Francisco Madonci, an Italian inmate of the Huntingdon reformatory, who was stabbed on Saturday last by a fellow inmate named Julius Wellsworth, died this morning from his injuries. The coroner and a jury after investigating the case to-day, exonerated Wellsworth, the wound having been inflicted while the boys were engaged in play.

A Never-die.

The "life-time" of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will never draw to a close. When a mother once uses it, she continues its use right along ; because, she found, for curing cough, cold, croup and whooping-cough Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup unequalled by any other similar medicine. "I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for ten or fifteen years in the family, for coughs and throat troubles caused by colds, and have found no superior article." Mrs. D. T. Clarke, 163 Congress St., Cleveland, O. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup can be had everywhere for 25 cents. Dealers will say they have something else "just as good or better," because they want to make more profit. Don't be "taken in." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best.

THE WEATHER PLEASANT

Both McKinley and Hobart Sleep Well in Washington.

MANY ANXIOUS PEOPLE CALL

The "City of Magnificent Distances" a Blaze of Glory and a Volume of Anticipation Over Thursday's Event.

Washington, March 2.—The President-elect and Vice President-elect both sleep in the national capital to-night. Their temporary headquarters at the Ebbitt and Arlington hotels respectively seethe and boil with the hopeful anticipation of thousands of aspiring patriots who are desirous of serving their country in connection with the old flag and an appropriation

The scenes in all the hotel lobbies resemble the eve of a presidential nominating convention. Every railroad entering the city through the two central depots has been disgorging crowds of visitors all day and will keep up the process without intermission night and day alike until Thursday noon. Schedule time is of course abandoned. It is 'go as you please' with all trains, hampered only by precautions against running over each other. No one can tell whether the arriving train is the limited express of yesterday or the day before. The streets are already thronged with strangers, hundreds of 'fakirs' who make their living no one knows how and who appear and disappear on occasions of this sort with equal mystery, are peddling their McKinley and Hobart badges and other trinkets with noisy pertinacity.

Electrical illumination designs make the streets a blaze of light. All the theatres are crowded, but the greatest show of all, the capitol, with both houses of congress in night session, and no charge for admission, was the chief attraction. The public galleries were packed and the corridors were rendered almost impassable by people waiting their turns to take the places of those who left.

All those conditions will be much increased to-morrow. The weather has turned unexpectedly warm, with a suspicion of rain in the air, though nothing more serious than a few showers is at present apprehended.

Soon after their arrival at the Ebbitt house this afternoon Major and Mrs. McKinley were figurattively snowed under by bits of white pasteboard, but they received a few intimate friends only. Gen. Russell A. Alger was among the callers. Mrs. McKinley was very much fatigued and retired to her room for a rest in preparation for the dinner at the white house to-night. The suite of the President-elect and his party was fairly overflowing with flowers, much to the delight of Mrs. McKinley, who expressed her appreciation of the thoughtfulness of those who had sent the floral tributes. Major McKinley, who had been somewhat depressed yesterday over the prospects for good weather on inauguration day on account of the disagreeable condition of affairs in Canton, became very cheerful under the influence of the bright sunshine and balmy atmosphere which greeted his arrival here. This has been the most perfect day Washington has had since winter began. Veritable spring weather prevails and there is every reason to hope that the fourth will be fitted in all respects for a successful ceremonial.

Mr. Hobart and wife remained at the Arlington hotel all evening, except for about a half hour, when they called upon Mr. and Mrs. McKinley at the Ebbitt.

Upon returning to their hotel they held an informal reception in their apartments, receiving kind words from New Jersey friends and distinguished men from all sections of the country who happened in the hotel. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hobart called upon Gov. Griggs and staff and their wives, who are at the Arlington, which was referred to as a New Jersey home party. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Hobart will call upon Vice President and Mrs. Stevenson and President Cleveland unless the illness of the latter prevents their doing so.

How a Dislocated Jaw Was Put Back Into Its Place.

While talking in his sleep Henry Flocke, a builder, residing in Ozone Park, L. I., dislocated his jaw. Mr. Flocke's habit of talking in his sleep has made him the butt of a good deal of joking. He went to bed as usual, but he had not slept long when he began talking. This awoke his wife, who listened for about ten minutes. Suddenly Flocke's noctural monologue stopped. He began gasping. Mrs. Flocke was frightened, and she shook her husband into wakefulness.

"Why what's the matter, Henry?" she asked.

Her husband tried to speak, but in vain. His jaw was immoveable. He motioned to his wife that he could not speak, and she endeavored to force his mouth shut. She could not move it. Fearing her husband was suffering from lockjaw, she sent for Dr. McDonald.

"Do you want me to replace your jaw in my own way?" asked the doctor.

Mr. Flocked motioned in the affirmative. Dr. McDonald stepped in front of Flocke. Without warning the doctor struck Flocke a terrific blow on the left side of the jaw. Flocke showed a disposition to strike back.

"You told me to do it my own way," said the physician. "You observe that your ability to speak is restored."

The blow had knocked Flocke's dislocated jawbone into its proper position, and except for a little soreness he was none the worse. Dr. McDonald explained that Flocke's jaw was liable to dislocation at any time unless he broke himself of the habit of talking in his sleep.—New York Times.

Happily Wedded.

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at the residence of Robert Cole, on East Hight street the contracting parties were Miss Clara Ellen Cole and Mr John Barnhart. Promptly at six o'clock, they took their places before Rev. J. W. Rue, of the Methodist Episcopal church and the words were soon said which made the happy couple one. Quite a number of the friends of the young people were present, and after the ceremony, a splendid wedding supper was served, which was much enjoyed by all present. The bride is a bright and winesome young lady of nineteen, and a daughter of Robert Cole, the architect. The groom is a son of a widow lady residing near the tole gate. He is a steady industrious young man, and is in the employ of R. B. Taylor the coal dealer. They were the recipients of quite a number of valuable presents. The DAILY NEWS joins with the many friends, in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart, its heartiest congratulations and best wishes for future prosperty.

A MARRIAGE SCHEME.

My scheme was that a marriage should be arranged between Uncle James and Miss Stubbs. Not that it was my business in the least, but that did not hinder me from interfering; nor that I thought the chief parties concerned were at all suited to each other—I never troubled my head about such minor details. I have always been fond of interfering with other people's affairs, not for their good at all, but simply for my own pleasure. I have the greatest sympathy with people who put their fingers into neighboring pies, provided they confess they do it for their own enjoyment and not for the advantage of the pies. Men do not kill foxes for food, but from love of sport. Women interfere with their neighbors for exactly the same reason. Put your fingers, dear ladies, into one another's pies, by all means, but remember that it is the finger, and not the pie, which derives pleasure from the operation. Having so much to see after in important matters, Providence seems sometimes in need of local agencies to manage minor affairs in remote country district—at least so I thought in my young days—and I was more than ready to undertake the office of Providence's local agent. Therefore I decided that Uncle James should marry Miss Stubbs.

We met Miss Stubbs while we were traveling in Switzerland. She was a little, timid washed out old maid. Her besetting sin was gentleness. She was too gentle for anything. Once when my brother Tom was a little boy he was naughty, and mother thought her wisest course lay in the proverbial soft answer. Tom bore mother's soft answers as long as he could, but he was but youthful flesh and blood after all, and naughty at that, so at last he exclaimed, 'I wish mother, you wouldn't be so silly and gentle!'

Miss Stubbs always made me recall that early remark of Tom's. She was so very "silly and gentle." Then she added to her gentleness gentility, which is also a trying virtue to onlookers. What with her gentleness and her gentility, she spoke so softly that one could only hear half that she said, and that half was by no means stimulating mental food. She had pale hair and pale eyelashes and pale ideas, but underneath all that the sweetest, most unselfish nature that woman ever possessed. At first I laughed at her, she seemed so dull and colorless, but as I grew to know her better I discovered many virtues and no faults in the faded little woman. She took a great fancy to me—because I was so young and strong and full of life, she said—and told me all her dreary history. Her parents were gentle people of good family, and late in life her father came into a small estate for which he had been waiting for years. But the estate was so greatly impoverished and so heavily incumbered that he was ruined by his succession to it, and he died of dissapointment, leaving his wife and only child with a miserable pittance, while the estate, which was strictly entailed, passed on to a distant cousin. Mrs. Stubbs survived her husband several years, but now she, too, was dead and Mrs Stubbs was as lonely as she was poor. There was something very pitiful to me about Miss. Stubbs. She seemed to have missed all that makes life worth living, to have sat alone on the bank while the stream flowed by, and it has always seemed to me sadder to die of starvation on the bank than to be dashed to pieces by the current.

"My dear" she said to me one day when we had become intimate with each other, "don't say you want to see life—seeing its dreary work. I never wanted to see life—I wanted to live life. But I never done either."

I took her thin little hand in mine and stroked it. "Were you unhappy when you were young?" I asked.

"Oh, no not unhappy, my dear, but not happy either! I am not complaining, for every one was very kind to me and ready to give me little scraps of their lives to share, but no one seemed to realize that I wanted a life of my own."

"Poor Miss. Stubbs!" I whispered.

"It is kind of you to be sorry for me, my dear Madge, but really I am not complaining. I have had a very peaceful lot compared with many a women. But I have always had the feeling that there is such a great deal to be got out of life and that I have somehow missed it all. There is plenty going on some where, but I am always out of it."

"I think I know what you mean—it is dull to sit in the boxes when one wants to be on the stage."

"Exactly, and I have never even had the boxes. I have had to be content with the dress circle."

"But did you never fall in love?" I asked, with extreme boldness.

The pale blue eyes filled with tears.

"Yes, dear Madge. And I should like to tell you about it, only there is nothing to tell."

"Oh, please tell me as much as there is, even if there is nothing!" I coaxed illogically.

"If there were more to tell, I think I shouldn't mind so much," said Miss Stubbs sadly. "I'd rather have a sad story than none at all. As it is, I haven't even the right to be unhappy. That isn't, of course, equal to the right to be happy, which some fortunate women have, but it is better than nothing. Why, Madge, my youth is over, and I have nothing left to remember it by—not even a love letter. I think if I had just one love letter, that I could keep always and read over and over again, I should be content, for then I should feel that I had one flower left out of the summer of life."

"But do tell me what happened?" I urged.

"Nothing happened. I once met some one whom I loved very much, and I think he loved me, but I am not even sure of that. I sometimes feel I'd give everything I have if I could only be sure of that, but I'm not. He was a young man who had his way to make in the world, and my dear father—as I have told you before—thought a great deal of our family and position and considered the man I loved was not good enough for me. So he just put a stop to our friendship."

"And you tamely submitted?"

"What else could I do? My dear father was a very stern man, and I dared not disobey him."

And as I gazed into the timid face I realized that poor Miss Stubbs had not needed much coercion to make her give up her day dream at her stern father's command.

"What was your lover like?" I asked.

"Oh, my dear, he was the handsomest man I ever saw, with such attractive manners!" she replied.

"Was he tall?" I asked. Being 5 foot 9 myself, I had a profound contempt for little men.

"Yes, dear, and such a fine figure—nice broad shoulders, you know, and a splendid carriage!"

I could not help wondering how a fine, handsome man could have fallen in love with such a colorless nonentity of a woman, but—as I have frequently noticed—there is no accounting for tastes.

I was filled with pity for poor Miss Stubbs. It seemed so sad to go through life without ever really living, as she had done, and thus it was that my great scheme occurred to me. What a good thing it would be if Uncle James would marry Miss Stubbs and give her some comfort at the end of her life? I said comfort because I was afraid happiness was no longer possible to her. That had disappeared forever with the vanished fairy prince of her youth. But a comfortable old age is not a thing to be despised, and at present the little woman was poor and desolate. I felt that Uncle James was an inadequate substitute for the lost hero whom Miss Stubbs had described to me, but, on the other hand, what man with the smallest pretension to heroism would throw the handkerchief to a plain, frightened little spinster of an uncertain age?

Uncle James was mother's only brother. He was a worthy, middle aged bachelor, rather short and increasingly stout, and was the apotheosis of commonplace respectability. He possessed a kind heart and a dogmatic manner, and he lived chiefly at his club and thought a great deal too much about things to eat. Tom said that his highest feelings were aroused only by pork chops, but Tom was always rather severe on Uncle James. When my uncle didn't talk about the food at the club, he talked about shares and investments, so it was no wonder that Tom and I thought him rather an old bore, though we were always kind to him because he was a relative. This, then, was the victim I yearned to offer upon Miss Stubbs' shrine, and I divulged my scheme to mother.

Mother laughed, "I should be very glad for your uncle to marry," she said, "as it worries me to think of him all alone, especially when he is gouty. But how could you expect him, or any other man, to fall in love with that faded old maid?"

"Oh, I don't expect him to fall in love!" I replied. "He is far too old. But I should like to see Miss Stubbs comfortably settled, and I am sure she would be a good, peaceful little wife. Besides, Uncle James isn't exactly the sort of person to win a beautiful princess for his bride."

"Poor James! And yet he had his beautiful princess once, like other men."

"Tell me about it, mother. You don't mean that that prosaic old uncle of mine was ever in love?"

"I do, though. He was dreadfully in love once, years and years ago. He used to tell me a lot about the girl, and how happy he would be if only he could win her, though he hardly dared to hope she would ever look at him. I never knew exactly what happened, but he wrote to me saying that the thing was finally at an end and begging me never to mention Annie Lorimer's name to him again. And I never have done so."

"What a pretty name! Was she pretty too?"

"I never saw her," replied mother, "but James used to say she was lovely—a dainty, exquisite, fairylike girl, as fragile as a bit of china, with golden hair and blue eyes and a lovely complexion. She danced beautifully and was just the type to attract James, who had always been accustomed to big, strong women." Mother is quite as tall as I am, and my grandmother was even taller.

"Poor Uncle James!" I said. "It is funny to imagine his caring for anything except pork chops and safe investments."

"He cared enough for Annie Lorimer five and twenty years ago," replied mother.

When our Swiss trip was over and we were settled at home again, I induced mother to invite Uncle James and Miss Stubbs to pay us a visit at the same time. She said it was an absurd arrangement and would lead to nothing, but she sent the invitations nevertheless. Father and mother always let me do as I like and have the things I want because I am the only daughter. Girls with a shoal of sisters don't get nearly as much of their own way as I do. People always think more of an odd cup and saucer than of a whole tea set, and yet I sometimes think it must be jollier to be one of a tea set, after all.

"You are too fond of acting as an amateur providence, Madge," mother said, "but I don't mind helping you this once."

Mother always says "this once" about kind things she has done every day in the past and will do every day in the future, but she seems to think that the expression protects her from the well founded charge of overindulgence.

So uncle James and Miss Stubbs came to stay with us. My uncle arrived first, and as he sat with mother and me in the morning room he asked, "Is any one else staying with you, Jane?"

"Only Miss Stubbs," replied mother 'and she arrives this afternoon. We met her at Lucerne, you know."

"Oh, some girl that Madge took a great fancy to, isn't she?"

"I took a great fancy to her," I answered, "but she isn't a girl. She is quite old."

"What a nuisance!" said Uncle James in his sharp manner. "I hate old women, and old maids especially."

"You won't hate her, James," said mother soothingly. "She is so quiet and unobtrusive that you'll hardly know she is in the house." Then she smiled slyly at me, and I felt my matrimonial plans foredoomed to failure.

At that moment Miss Stubbs arrived, and mother and I ran into the hall to meet her. She looked as faded and washed out as ever, and as I followed her and mother into the morning room I sighed over the futility of my well meant scheme.

"Let me introduce my brother to you," mother began. "James, this is"—But before she could finish her sentence Uncle James jumped and seized Miss Stubbs by both hands, crying: "Why, Annie, you don't mean to say that it is you, come back to me after all these years?" And there was a look on his face that the tenderest pork chops and the safest investments had never been able to call forth.

Miss Stubbs was quite flushed and trembling all over. "And it is really you, James? I never dreamed that I should see you again."

"This is Annie Lorimer, that I used to tell you about, Jane," explained Uncle James, turning to mother, but still keeping Miss Stubbs' hands in his. "But why on earth did you call her Miss Stubbs?"

Miss Stubbs answered for mother.

"They only knew me as Miss Stubbs. James. When my father came into that estate, which proved such a disapointment to him, he had to give up the name of Lorimer and take that of Stubbs, and I suppose I never mentioned that my name had once been Lorimer,"

As we all sat at tea together I meditated deeply on the romantic situation and thought how sad it must be to be parted from a fine handsome man such as Miss Stubbs has described to me and from a golden haired fairy such as uncle used to talk about to mother, and then to meet them five and twenty years afterwards, transformed into a fat old bachelor and a faded old maid. But my cup of amazement was full when I heard Uncle James say.

"What have you been doing to keep yourself so young, Annie? You hardly look a day older than when I last saw you."

And Miss Stubbs replied: "You also are scarcely altered a bit, James. should have known you anywhere."

This fairly knocked me over. It is absurd to say that love is blind. Love not only sees beauties and virtues no one else sees, but what it has once seen it sees always. It is very funny and interesting.

The next day I said to Miss Stubbs, "Whatever made you say Uncle James was tall when you described him to me.

"Because he is tall. Don't you think your uncle is a very fine man, my dear?"

"I don't known. He always seemed rather short to me, somehow," I stammered awkwardly.

Miss Stubbs smiles. "To you, yes. But you are so exceptionally tall, you know."

Whereby I learned that height is, after all, only a question of proportion.

Not long after this Uncle James asked me in his sharp, masterful way: "What possessed you, Madge, when you told me that Annie was old? Why, she is no more old than I am."

I felt confused. "She seemed rather old to me, somehow," I stammered.

My uncle smiled. "You, yes. But you are so absurdly young, you know."

Whereby I learned that age also is a question of proportion.

On the day that Uncle James and Aunt Annie were married mother said to me, "I think that Providence helped my managing little girl with her plans this time."

"No, mother," I answered. "Providence took it out of my hands altogether and finished the business alone and did it a million times better than I could have imagined.

Mother smiled,

"You see," "I continued, "my scheme was to bring two rather uninteresting, middle aged people together and insure a dull and comfortable old age for them, but Providence's plan was to reunite two true lovers who had waited for each other for a quarter of a century and make them young again and happy with the highest sort of happiness. The ways of Providence are better than our ways, after all. Aren't they, mother?"

"As the heavens are higher than the earth," said mother softly.—Woman at Home.

The Bishop's Lenten Letter.

Bishop McGovern's Lenten letter will be read in all the churches of the Harrisburg diocese of the catholic church next Sunday. The letter gives ten rules for the faithful members of the church to observe during the season of Lent, lasting from Ash Wednesday, March 3, until Easter Sunday, April 18. All members over 21 years of age are required to fast, partaking of but one meal a day (about noon), and meat is prohibited on certain days of the week. The sick, the aged etc., are exempt from this requirement. Yesterday the semi-annual conference of the sixty-five or more priests of the Harrisburg diocese met at Sylvan Heights, the residence of Bishop McGovern. It began at 1 o'clock and lasted all afternoon. Theological questions were discussed and the affairs of various parishes considered.

Trusting to Luck.

Louisville, Ky., February 26.—Colonel George Washington, attorney for Alonzo Walling, Scott Jackson's accomplice, said to-day that Jrckson will go to the scaffold without confession, trusting that something may occur to save his life. Assistant Secretary of State Guffy said: "Governor Bradley has been notified that Mrs. Jackson is coming to Frankfort to intercede for her son, but a few days since the governor told Private Secretary Roberts that he would not see her, nor deviate from his rule to only consider applications for executive clemency by letter. Governor Bradley believed the men have had a fair trial, are guilty and will not commute the sentence of either, even though one or the other makes a full confession.

A Banquet to Penrose.

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—United States Senator elect Penrose was tendered a complimentary dinner here this evening by the republican clubs of Pennsylvania. The dinner was originally intended to have been held at the Hotel Walton, but so many acceptances poured in on the committee of arrangements that the committee was compelled to engage Horticultural hall to accommodate the throng desirous of testifying by their presence the regard in which the young representative of Pennsylvania in the United States senate is held by the partymen of the state. When the banqueters came together this evening about 600 sat down at the tables.

STORY OF AN EPILEPTIC.

A Wealthy Woman of Sodus Bay Relates a Thrilling Experience.

A Sufferer for Thirty Years—Treated by Eminent Specialists—Relief from an Unexpected Source.

From the Journal, Palmyra, N. Y.

There is scarcely a child in Western New York, who has survived eight summers, who has not spent at least several months of that time at one of the many beautiful resorts of Sodus Bay. It is here that the canoe clubs spend their annual outings, it is here that the yacht clubs of Lake Ontario hold their annual regattas, and it is here that the Soldiers' and Sailors' associations hold their annual re-unions. But in this case as among all others, where gaiety and sport seem to abound so richly, there are often persons who have little interest in their surroundings, beautiful and comfortable as they may be, because of the dreadful effects of some terrible disease which afflicts the unfortunate patient the more severely, because instead of claiming one for a speedy victim it makes life one continual torture by dragging through months and years of lingering pain.

A Journal reporter has heard many reports of wonderful recoveries brought about by a wonderful and effective remedy, and among the more recent cases that of the complete recovery of Mrs. Sarah L. Christian, who resides on the "Bay Shore" several miles beyond Bonni Castle. And in order to satisfy himself that the reports of these recoveries in that vicinity were reliable, he set out last Thursday morning about 7 o'clock for Lumisville, the post office address of Mrs. Christian, deciding to spend the day among the beautiful scenery surrounding the bay and to satisfy his curiosity as to the quality of the cure. The drive through Wayne county was a most delightful and exhilarating one and at 2 o'clock he found himself driving along the shore of the bay toward a large residence, the gable and roof of which could just be seen protruding from a clump of magnificent trees, whose leaves had been delicately tinted by the frosts of October. Suddenly he came upon a broad drive leading to the handsome residence, bounded on either side by double rows of stately elms and with a hillside covered with a large orchard for a background. However impressed as he was by the beauty and magnificence of the scene, with the chill blue waters of the lake in front, lashed into a thin white spray by the breeze of the lake, it was not nearly as impressive as the scene which followed as the door opened in response to the call from the "knocker" and the reporter was ushered into the tastefully furnished drawing room by a handsome, healthy lady of about forty-five, and as he noticed the calm look of satisfaction which over spread her face as he announced his mission he was convinced at once that the tale about to be told would be an interesting one.

In response to the preliminary question she said that she "was very glad the reporter had called as she was willing that all afflicted in like manner should know of her recovery and find the same relief that she had found." She said further:

"When I was a mere child five or six years of age I contracted the measles while at school one day and through an untimely exposure to a draught I caught a severe cold and was quite ill for many weeks, and when I was again able to be about I was an epileptic and also subject to severe spells of nervous prostration. At this time my parents did not consider the matter very seriously, thinking that I would soon 'outgrow' the symptoms which now claimed me as their prey. But as time wore on and I became no better they began to see their folly and the family physician was called and consulted anew as to the best course to pursue in my case. He prescribed for me and examined me regularly but this medicine was of little avail and I found myself growing more nervous and dreading the spells when I should be overcome by my trouble. After they became convinced that he could afford me no relief, they called in physicians from neighboring villages and for a time perhaps the new prescriptions and change of treatment would have a good effect, but it was only a matter of one or two months when I would find myself worse off than when I began the treatment. Time matters ran on, and no one knows how intensely I suffered at times and how much I wished that I might leave it all behind. After marrying Mr. Christian, he decided that the hundreds of dollars which my parents had expended on me had been wasted and decided to place me under the care of a physician with more experience and a greater name. This was done and when he failed to help me another was consulted, until tiring of physicians of general practice, my husband placed me under the care of an eminent specialist. But this treatment was as fruitless as the previous ones had been, and we were obliged to give it up after spending many hundreds of dollars and much time. My condition grew rapidly worse, and I became so weak that I was hardly able to be about the house, and generally was confined to my bed at least three days per week.

"It was one day in October, about four years ago after spending my life in hours of untold agony and dreariness, that as I was recovering from a very severe attack of the epilepsy, and was lying upon a lounge in my room weak and discouraged and exceedingly nervous, that my husband handed me a paper seeking to divert my attention from my condition for a few moments. After looking the first page over in a listless manner my eyes caught the headlines of an article and carelessly I read of the recovery of a woman in New England by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At first I did not feel interested for I had reached a point where I never expected to find even the slightest relief for my tired body and mind. But I soon discovered that the symptoms in this case had been similar to my own and I handed the paper back to my husband asking him to read it and as a result of our reading the testimonial he decided to procure a package of the Pink Pills the next day, which he did. I then began taking them with great regularity according to the directions and though the first package effected no marked change in my condition we thought there was a slight improvement, and he purchased another. Well, you see I had reached a point where the specialist failed to benefit me and my condition was desperate you can imagine. But after I commenced on the second package there was a marked improvement, and it continued until in about three months after I first began taking them I felt better than I could ever remember having felt before. Continuing to take them during the winter months I became entirely cured of the epilepsy and when spring and summer came I was in as fine a condition for enjoying the sports of this beautiful spot as any one who came here. I am completely cured from my former attacks and though sometime subject to slight nervous spells I always find ready relief from one or two of Dr. Williams' Pills. I always keep them in a convenient place, and my children too, are often benefited by this, to me the most wonderful and blessed remedy ever put up."

And in order to clinch the story the reporter inquired if she would be willing to take her affidavit and to confirm the story beyond all doubt, to which she readily assented.

Among the stories told to the deserved credit of such lawyers as have no scruples against distorting and concealing the truth in order to shield persons whom they know, or have every reason to believe to be guilty, the following is entitled to a good place:

A lawyer had occasion to defend a man who was justly accused of counterfeiting banknotes, and he manipulated the case with such skill that he secured the acquittal of the prisoner. When the lawyer and his client were alone together again, the counterfeiter overwhelmed the lawyer with thanks.

'And now—' said he, putting his hand in his pocket.

'And now,' said the lawyer, taking up the sentence, 'I will have my fee, and I will take it in gold, not in banknotes, if you please.'

SANGUILLY OUT OF CUBA

The Released Prisoner on His Way to New York.

GEN. RODESIGNEZ'S WIFE SPEAKS

Gen. Alger Does Not Think There Will Be War, But He Believes in Maintaining the Rights of American Citizens.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 28.—Julio Sanguilly, the naturalized American just released from a Spanish prison in Havana, arrived from Havana last night and will go to New York. Mrs. Eva Adam, wife of Gen. Roderiguez, of the Cuban army, was another arrival. She remains here and states that the Cuban cause is improving, and she has great hopes of its ultimate success. Her treatment while in prison was disgraceful to a woman of refinement, she stated. She was thrown among the lowest of her sex and harshly treated.

Havana, Feb. 28.—While Captain Maria, with a cavalry force, was reconnoitering around San Antonio de Las Vegas, province of Havana, he was attacked by a force of rebels. After a fight which lasted three hours the rebels were dispersed with heavy losses. They left 31 dead on the field. The troops lost 12 killed and a captain, a lieutenant and 14 privates wounded. According to the last reports Captain General Weyler has left San Spiritus and is at Plocetas.

Washington, Feb. 28.—General Russel A. Alger, the coming secretary of war, says that the United States does not want war with Spain. The only conditions that could bring on war were willful and wanton wrongs upon our citizens, and in that event he would be in favor of prompt redress, if it took every fighting man we could raise.

Henry W. McDonnel, of Alabama, who owns a large plantation in Cuba, went there early in the month to look after it. He found it desolated and destroyed by Spanish troops, and was arrested in Havana for making uncomplimentary remarks about the government. Consul General Lee was sent for and in his presence Weyler flung McDonnel's passport on the floor and said that it was of no importance. McDonnel rescued the document and protested against the insult to the seal of the United States. Weyler refused to apologize, but released McDonnel, who was afterwards closely watched by Spanish spies during the remainder of his stay in Havana. He is now in Washington to seek redress at the hands of this government.

Consul General Lee has cabled the State department that Ruiz, the naturalized American, was murdered in prison at Guanabacoa, in spite of the official finding by Spanish authorities that he died from natural causes.

It is revealed that during the debate in the Senate on the resolution to demand the immediate release of Julio Sanguilly, Secretary Olney and Senator Sherman were fully apprised of the negotiations to set the prisoner free. On Feb. 17 Mr. Olney advised Mr. Sherman that the negotiations were in progress, and that he would be very sorry to have them injured by any discussion of the case in the Senate. Five days later Mr. Morgan reported from the foreign relations committee the imperative resolution on the Sanguilly question, and on the same day Mr. Olney communicated to Mr. Sherman a letter from the Spanish minister, Dupuy de Lome, saying that Sanguilly would be pardoned if he would withdraw his application against the sentence of life imprisonment.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 28.—Maj. Hoyt Sherman, brother of Senator Sherman, has just returned from a trip East. He visited his brother, who, he says, is of the opinion that a war vessel should be sent to Havana to give assurance that protection will be afforded the American citizens in Cuba. This would not be for the purpose of causing war, but would serve to remind the Spanish that they should be more careful in their treatment of American citizens. Mr. Sherman said his brother does not agree with the policy of the present administration, and thinks it should have acted long ago. He does not mean such a stand would mean war, but thinks it would have a good effect on Spain, as showing that this country must be respected.

A Centre County Man Wed.

Last evening a delightful company of relatives and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fetterhoof, West Fifteenth street, to witness the marriage of their daughter Bertha, to J. Ross Ellenberger, of Marengo Centre county. At the appointed hour the guests being assembled in the parlors the wedding party marching to the delightful strains of the wedding march, entered, and the couple taking their respective positions were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock by the Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs, of the First M. E. church, assisted by the Rev. F. L. Bergstresser, of the First Lutheran church.

The bride was attired in a cream dress of very pretty design and carried a bouquet of flowers. The groom was dressed in the conventional black and wore a bouquet of carnations. Charles Ellenberger acted as best man for the groom, and Miss Minnie, the bride's sister, as bridesmaid. After congratulations all repaired to the dining hall where an elaborate supper was served.

The rooms were tastily decorated with evergreens, vines and flowers. The presents received by the couple were many and useful, silverware, china, glassware and table linen. The happy couple will leave on the 7:50 train to morrow morning for the home of the groom's parents in Centre county where a reception will be tendered them.—Friday's Tyrone Herald.

The Cigarette Bill.

The bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes as passed by the house, reads as follows: That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any person or persons within this commonwealth to manufacture or sell any paper wrapper cigarettes or cigarette paper. That any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, being convicted, thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five huudred dollars or undergo an imprisonment not exceeding twelve months, or both, or either, at the discretion of the court.

Frightfully Burned.

At Williamsport Friday morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, George B. Gettler, a motorman, returned from his work to his home, 326 Lycoming street. His wife was waiting on him. As they were about to go up stairs the husband began shaking the grate of the stove, Mrs. Gettler standing near by with the lighted lamp in her hand. Accidentally the raker slipped from the man's hand and flew against the lamp, breaking it. The burning oil spread itself over the woman's face, shoulders and body. Amid her screams the husband made frantic efforts to extinguish the flames, but before he did so he was seriously burned. A physician was sent for who did all he could to relieve the sufferings of the woman. She presents a frightful appearance, her face arms and the upper portion of the body showing terrible inroads as made by the flames. It is extremely doubtful if she can recover.

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Queen Victoria Hangs on to a Bargain.

During one of her visits to the south of France the Queen noticed in a shop in Nice, I believe, a very pretty little black and white sunshade exhibited for sale at the low sum of one shilling. A sunshade for a shilling, and such a petty one, too! Her majesty was charmed, and for once in her life experienced the thrill of securing a real bargain. I have it on authority that rarely had anything so cheap been seen even at a clearance sale. Alas! for the feeling of her mortified daughters, the queen carried that 'odious' little shilling sunshade in season and out of season the whole summer through. She even desired to return to her first love with renewed ardor the following year, but by dint of much coaxing and persuasion from the Princess of Wales, to whose gentle influence the Queen is very amenable, she was induced to relinquish it.—Woman at Home.

Struck by an Avalanche.

Berne, March 2.—The left wing of the great Monastery of St. Bernard has been demolished by an avalanche. Fortunately, no lives were lost, nor was any one seriously injured, but the monks occupying the Monastery were in serious danger for some time before their safety was assured. When the great masses of snow and ice descended upon the building the occupants took refuge in the part which remained unharmed, and from there were able to dig a tunnel under the snow, through which they crawled. Most of them were severely frostbitten.

The famous Monastery of St. Bernard is situated on the Great St. Bernard Pass, crossing the Pennine Alps, between the Swiss Canton of Vaud and the Valley of Aosta. It is over 8,000 feet above the level of the sea. The Monastery, which is near the summit, is believed to have been founded by St. Bernard, of Menthon, in 962. It was the custom of the monks to entertain and give relief to travellers over the pass, and to aid in their work of rescue they bred the well known strain of St. Bernard dogs. This breed, which was noted for size and sagacity, became extinct some seventy years ago, and the dogs now known as St. Bernards have been developed since that time. Napoleon crossed the Alps by this pass in 1800, with an army of 30,000 men.

The Dear Irish Home.

In the new play 'The Dear Irish Home,' which the popular Irish comedian, Dan McCarthy, will produce at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, March 9th, there is one scene in particular that is especially pleasing to mothers and children. This scene is in the second act, when Santa Claus makes his descent through the chimney at midnight to place the presents in the stockings the little ones have hung on the mantel. An amusing incident is the fact that the little rogues are sleeping with one eye open in order to get a glimpse of the mythical benefactor who brings happiness into their midst. The play is said to be interpreted by an excellent company, and is interspersed with sparkling comedy. Several specialties are introduced, including jig, clog, buck and wing dancing and bagpipe playing, besides several new songs. Among the members of the company are the Misses Lou Ripley, Marion Strathmore, Mabel Kitts, Lucile Loith, Edith Baird, and Messrs. Harry Booker, P. C. Foy, Edward Brennan, Thomas Smith, J. F. Bolger and George Earle.

Off for Cuba.

Philadelphia, March 2.—Two, possibly three, expiditions are said to have left the United States to-day with men and munitions of war for Cuba. One party is reported to have left Barnegat, on the coast of New Jersey, on the steamship Laurada. The exposition is said to be in charge of General Carlos Roloff, the insurgent minister of war. The Laurada's cargo is said to consist of 7,000 rifles, and 1,700,000 rounds of ammunition, 25 tons of dynamite, 500 machetes and a big supply of medicine and surgical instruments. Fifty men are reported to have gone on the steamer.

Another exposition is said to have left the New Jersey coast, near New York, on the steamer South Portland, which sailed on saturday ostensibly for Barraquilla, Central America. Her cargo is a large one, including about 1,500 tons of war material. She also carries about 100 passengers.

The Bermuda is also off the Long Island coast ready it is said, to carry an expedition, which left New York on Sunday for Block Island, where the transfer is to be made. Thus far it has been impossible to receive the cargo on board owing to the heavy sea running in the sound.

Fruitful Iowa.

A little paragraph from the Washington Post brings to mind that the Hawkeye state, though she has not furnished the Union with a president, has yielded as many and more members of the cabinet than the Buckeye state has presidents, and thus "the is have it." The paragraph is as follows: "Prof. Wilson, of West Virginia, leaves the cabinet and returns to his school at the close of president Cleveland's term, and Prof. Wilson, of Iowa leaves his school and enters the Cabinet of President-elect McKinley, as Secretary of Agriculture. Secretary Wilson, of the next administration, is well known to every member of the Iowa delegation to Congress. One of them called attention yesterday to the fact that Mr. Wilson will be the sixth citizen of Iowa that has been called to a position in a Presidential Cabnet. Hon. James Harlan was appointed Secretary of the Interior by Mr. Lincoln, after his second inauguration. Hon W. W. Belnep was Secretary of War under President Grant. Hon. George W. McCrary served in like capacity under President Hayes. Hon. Samuel J. Kirkwood was Secretary of the Interior during the administration of Garfield and Arthur, and Hon. Frank Hatton was Postmaster General during the closing period of Mr. Arthur's administration."

—The New York Sun, asked to name the ten American women who will live longest in history, gives this answer: Martha Washington, Rebecca Rolf (Pocahontas), Molly Pitcher, Elizabeth Blackwell, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Priscilla Alden, Eliza Goose (Mother Goose), Maria Mitchell, Harriett Beecher Stowe and Lucrettia Mott.

The bill to appropriate $10,000 to represent Nevada at the Nebraska exposition was killed in the Legislature.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 1, 1897

Senator Sherman has said enough to let all the world know what the Cuban policy of President McKinley will be. To boil it down, President McKinley purposes to let the Spaniards and Cubans fight it out without taking sides, and to let both understand that American citizenship has got to be respected, something that has not been under the Cleveland-Olney Cuban policy. Such a policy would have prevented the exciting scenes in Congress caused by the treatment which Spain has been allowed to give American citizens in Cuba.

If Congress fails to dispose of all the appropriation bills, it will not be the fault of the House, which passed the last of them several days ago. The Senate has been in an ugly mood since the Cuban excitement last week, which was so suddenly brought to a close by a deal between Secretary Olney and Spain, which resulted in the pardon of Julio Sanguily just as the Senate was about to adopt a resolution demanding his unconditional release. Senator Sherman's announcement that American citizens everywhere would be protected by President McKinley's administration also had a quieting effect, but the ugly temper of the Senate has come to the surface in a number of personal wrangles over unimportant matters.

Washington begins inauguration week full of visitors and with every arriving train bringing more, and the decorations already in place make it certain that it will present a much handsomer and more artistic appearance than it has ever done before. The stands along Pennsylvania avenue, from which the parade will be viewed, are much handsomer than usual, just as the prices for seats are much higher than usual, ranging from $5.00 for the best to $1.00 for the rear seats in the stands. There are seats for about 50,000 in all the stands and the present demand indicates that they will all be occupied. but those who see the parade from seats will hardly be one-tenth of the total number of spectators.

Many prominent men, including Chairman Hanna, and four members of President McKinley's Cabinet are already in Washington, and the corridors of the principal hotels remind one of scenes at a National Convention.

John Wedderburn, who figured in the Courts as the defendant in a suit brought by W. R. Hearst, in connection with the Examiner Claims Bureau, and the Press Claims Company, both of which Wedderburn originated and both of which are now dead, has run up against an official snag in the conduct of the business of John Wedderburn & Co. Fifty-five prominent patent lawyers of Washington, including four ex-Commissioners of Patents, have signed charges against the firm of Wedderburn & Co., and filed them with the Post Office Department, for conducting a fraudulent business, and asking that a fraud order be issued by the Post Office Department against Wedderburn & Co., and that the National Recorder, a paper published by them, be shut out of the mails for fraud.

How much those who were saying a few days ago how strong the opposition in the House was to the bill authorizing President McKinley to call a monetary conference or to appoint delegates to one called by any other country, knew about the state of feeling towards the bill, may be inferred from the vote by which it was passed, 279 to 3.

Senator Burrows believes, notwithstanding the address issued by the silver republicans last week, and the positive assertion of Senator DuBois to the contrary, that they will vote with the republicans for the tariff bill. Speaking on the subject Mr. Burrows said: "I have every reason to believe that while these gentlemen have announced themselves as silver republicans, they will cooperate with their colleagues of the republican party on this line, and when we have secured such legislation as will supply the Treasury with necessary revenue for Government support, it will be time enough to take up the silver question I suppose this proclamation of the silver party has reference more particularly to the campaign of 1900 and I confidently believe that before that time the country will be in such a state of prosperity that the silver question will not be able to engage to any extent the attention of the public."

There is a general feeling of relief when it was announced that the Senate Committee on Public Lands, had, after investigating the matter, reported that the Land patent issued to Mr. Perrine, the stepfather of Mrs. Cleveland was issued in accordance with the law and precedents controlling such matters.

Representative Murray's request for an investigation of the last election in S. C. has been referred to the next House as an important matter demanding the consideration of Congress.

—A French girl was imprisoned in Cuba a few days ago because the Spanish authorities pretended to believe she was in sympathy with the insurgents. The French republic learned of it and demanded her release at once, and she was released without any folderol, otherwise known as diplomatic correspondence. That's business.

A bright little newspaper, "The Indian Guide," is published at the Shosbone (Wyo.) Agency, the editors, printers and devil allq eing full-blooded redskins.

A Limit to Human Endurance.

"Yes," said the kindly faced resident physician at the Hospital for Nervous Diseases, "this patient is one of my show cases; so to speak. He is a shatter wreck. It is very, very sad!"

And he wiped his nose with a deep sympathy. Also with a handkerchief.

The visitor looked at the man with great interest.

He sat in a padded arm chair, shaking palsily.

Now and then he would start up and look around wildly, sniffling in an odd manner. Indeed the sniffling seemed to be a marked characteristic of his disease. Some times he did it rather involuntarily.

It was rather pitiful.

"Well," the resident physician said, in answer to the questions of the visitors, who wanted to know the cause of it all, "you see the poor man lived a happy married life until he moved into the an uptown flat where the fire escapes were hollow mockeries. The consequence was that his wife got into the habit of waking him up about six or eight times ever night and saying: '"David, David! Don't you smell wood burning?'"

Sobs of sympathy rose in the visitors' throats as they turned away their eyes.

But the patient went on sniffling.—N. Y World.

The Heart Must Not be Trifled with

Where there are symptoms of heart weakness, there should be Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, it's a magical remedy, gives relief in thirty minutes, and there are thousands who testify that it cures permanently. Mrs. W. T. Rundle, of Dundalk, Ont., says: "I was for years unable to attend to my household duties. I used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, the result was wonderful, the pain left me immediately after the first dose, and a few bottles cured."

—Dan McCarthy's latest successful play "The Dear Irish Home," which he will produce at the Opera House on next Tuesday evening is said to be an excellent one, full of fine character representations and interesting scenes. The Christmas eve scene in second act is said to be one of the most amusing conceits imaginable, and the first scene in third act is a most remarkably pathetic picture. The people portraying the several characters are said to be thoroughly competent, having been especially selected for their adaptability to the characters. Among the members of the company are the Misses Lou Ripley, Marion Strathmore, Mable Kitts, Lucile Leith, Edith Baird and Messrs. Harry Booker, P. O. Foy, Edward Brennan, Thomas Smith, J. F. Bolger and George Earle.

He Stared Death in the Face.

Shamokin, March 2.—With a passenger train bearing rapidly down upon him Joseph Plozinskie had to stand still and look death in the face ne Mount Carmel, last night. The heel of his left shoe was wedged in a frog and he couldn't release it or take off the shoe in time. Both of his legs were ground to pieces and he died soon afterward.

China imported 13,000,000 square feet of American lumber last year, most of it from the States of Oregon and Washington Sold.'"

To Make Nevada A Sporing Paradise.

Carson, Nev., March 1—It is reported on good authority that Assemblyman Timothy Dempsey, who was one of the most ardent supporters of the Boxing bill is going to introduce a bill in the Legislature now in session asking for an appropriation of $3,000 for the purpose of having made a gorgeous belt of silver, with diamond studding, to be presented to either Corbett or Fitzsimmons, whichever chances to be the winner of the coming contest. The bill will provide that the Secretary of State shall deliver the belt on March 18, along with a certificate and affidavit notifying to the world the signficance of the trophy. It is intended to have on the belt a reproduction of the official seal of Nevada and a facsimile of Governor Sadler's signato and approval of the measure. It is said that the Governor has already given his consent to sign the bill if it passes.

There is a rumor afloat that the Legislature will have ten days' extra session, with the idea of indulging in legislation which, if carried out, will make Nevada a sporting paradise. The idea is to make the State a general rendezvous of the wealthy sporting men, where they can have all kinds of gambling, horseracing, prize-fighting, wrestling, etc, Those who voted against the prize-fight now admit that it has brought a large amount of money into the State, and an orderly class of people, instead of crowds of toughs and blacklegs expected by the opponents of the measure.

An Angel of Mercy.

Truly, the miraculous cures of rheumatism made by Salvation Oil, justly earned for it the title: an angel of mercy; for many bed-confined rheumatics have experienced the great, curative properties of this modern liniment. "I used Salvation Oil for rheumatism and found it a sure cure. I used three bottles and am now perfectly well, and I would feel myself a benefactor if I could induce every person afflicted with rheumatism to try Salvation Oil." James H. Bryant, Debruhls, N. C. Salvation Oil is sold everywhere for 25 cents, but some dealers may say, "we are out of it," hoping to sell a cheap substitute instead. Insist on getting Salvation Oil, or go to some other dealer who will sell it to you.

Mine Cave-In.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 1.—An extensive mine cave-in occurred in the town of Wyoming to-night, in the main workings of the Schooley mine, operated by Simpson & Watkins, which are 600 feet underneath the town. A loud report was heard and houses shook on their foundations. An investigation showed that the earth's surface had caved in, in some places a distance of twenty-five feet. The area affected is about 150 yards long and 200 yards wide.

The postoffice is almost a complete wreck and other buildings, including three dwelling houses, sank a distance of twenty feet. The mail was taken from the post office building, and tenants of the wrecked houses have moved, as another cave-in is feared.

The cause is said to be a lack of sufficient props in the mine to hold the roof. An accurate estimate of the damage cannot be made until morning.

Skin and blood diseases, causing all sorts of dire disasters to human happiness are easily and quickly cured by Burdock blood Bitters, from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

Bellefonte Mothers Keep Them; but With a Little Light, There Need Be None.

How carefully mothers guard the secrets of their boys and girls. At night as she carefully tucks the bed clothes around them she chides and warns that mother will be angry if they repeat last night's offense, softly saying to herself its only a habit, but I must break them of it. This is a mother's mistake. And children cannot help it, and sweet, clean, dry beds can be the resting place of every child when it is understood that the cause is not a habit, but a weakness, that can be cured. Active life of the little ones tends to weaken the kidneys, and weak kidneys mean inability to retain urine. This is not a condition not a habit, and should have the same attention you would give to the symptoms of any disease. One of Doan's Kidney Pills taken twice a day and at bedtime will strengthen the kidneys of a child, and in a short time there will be no cause to scold, for the so called habit will disappear promptly.

Here's a greatful mother that adds her Indorsement to our words.

Mrs. W. E. Bryerton 101 Fourth Street says; "My daughter 8 years old had at the age of four, a severe attack of measles. When she recovered, she was left with weak kidneys and the trouble developed into a urinary difficulty. We doctored for it, but made little or no headway. Last fall, she with other children, had the typhoid fever. It aggravated it and she complained of her back aching and continually feeling tired: She had little or no control, of the urine while sleeping, in spite of all the doctors and I could do. It struck me if Doan's Kidney Pills were good for this distressing complaint in adults, they should be for children and I procured a box. They improved her condition from the start and finally did more for her than all I ever did as well as the doctor. The trouble is gone. Before using he old Quaker remedy, she could not go to Sabbath School. Now I am thankful to say she can go anywhere."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Mrs. Hyndman Sues.

Cincinnati, March 1.—To-day the divorce suit of Mrs. Leila M. Hyndman, of Philadelphia, against Harry Hyndman was filed in the common pleas court. Mrs. Hyndman also asks for alimony and custody of the boy, Hamilton, over whom habeas corpus proceedings are now in progress. She charges unfaithfulness.

The charges cover much of the testimony developed in taking of depositions for the habeas corpus case.

Speaking of "A Trip to Chinatown," which recently played in Bellefonte and is now playing in New York at popular prices, the Dramatic Mirror says: "The attraction is being almost wrecked with internal dissensions and strife. Manager Harry C. Kennedy has called into requisition a display of all of his diplomacy to keep Laura Biggar, Burt Haverly and H. S. Taylor from falling upon and devouring each other after the manner of the typical Kilkenny cats, so strained have become the relations of these respective people. 'Brother against Brother' s the aptly suggestive title of the succeeding attraction here."

McKinley and Whitelaw Reid.

Canton, Ohio, Feb. 28.—In the talk about New York appointments that has appeared in the newspapers from day to day since the election, it seems to have escaped general notice that Whitelaw Reid, of the Tribune, has always been a great favorite of the President-elect for some suitable and conspicuous recognition. Mr. Reid's selection for a place in the Cabinet or a foreign embassy, at his choice, has been until recently under Major McKinley's careful and most cordial consideration. The relations between the two gentlemen have long been kind and intimate, and no one regrets Mr. Reid's ill health more than the President-elect, or is so anxious for his complete recovery.

But both Mr. Reid and his friends think it would be imprudent for him to risk the confinement of official work until his health is absolutely restored, and hence have advised against that course. Major McKinley, within the last fortnight, finally and reluctantly gave up the idea of appointing Mr. Reid, and thereupon wrote him a letter expressive both of his regard and appreciation, and of the deep regret that for the present at least he could not have the advantage of his association and cooperation in the affairs of the administration.

Made Himself at Home.

As Mrs Christian Frey was attending to her household duties in the rear part of her residence on Smith street, Jersey Shore, Thursday evening, at about 7 o'clock, a noise in one of the front rooms directed her attention to that part of the house. Upon entering the sitting room she was greatly startled to find a stranger sitting in one of the rocking chairs, evidently enjoying himself immensely. The only response to her query as to what he wanted was a cold stare. The frightened woman together with her two daughter, who were the only ones in the house at the time, beat a hasty retreat and ran down the street to the home of Chief of Police Morton, who returned with her to the house. The man still sat in a drunken stupor. On being brought to his senses he gave his name as Campbell, stating he had come from his home at English Centre early that morning and had imbibed to much Jersey Shore liquor. The officer released him after giving him a severe lecture.

Poetry from His Wife's Pen.

'Yes,' said the major, unfolding a batch of manuscript and handing it to the editor, 'my wife has written poetry ever since she was 13 years old.'

'So long as that?' sighed the editor.

'Oh, it isn't very long,' said the major, merrily. She isn't more than 35 now; been that ever since I married her; don't age at all.'

'I see,' remarked the editor. 'And she must be very fond of you?'

'Dotes on me!' exclaimed the major.

'Yes,' observed the editor. 'I gather as much from this poem of hers: 'Lines to my Husband, Written by a Sad Soul at 3 O'clock in the Morning, After I had Waited for Him all Night Long.'

'The devil!' exclaimed the major, 'is that what she says?'

'Exactly,' replied the editor, 'and here's another—'Lines on My Husband, Threatening to Throw My Mother's Trunk from the Third Story, When he was in a State of Intoxication.'

'Here,' cried the major, excitedly, 'give me that darned truck back again; I always told her she couldn't write poetry. There ain't a bit of poetry in the whole blamed family! Let's go out and take something!'—Atlanta Constitution.

The Baker Ballot Law.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The memorial of the Civil Service Reform Association of Pennsylvania respectfully represents—That the Commonwealth and its several counties are put to great and unnecessary expense, and the voters of the Commonwealth to unreasonable inconvenience and annoyance by reason of the large size of the official ballots which, under the provisions of the present law, are now furnished to voters at the polls at every general election.

That the large size of the official ballot is caused solely by the arrangement of the names of the candidates to be voted for in party columns, and would be entirely obviated if the law was amended so as to conform to the draft of the ballot law originally prepared by this Association and introduced into a former Legislature, by which the names of the candidates are arranged on the ballot in alphabetical order under the name of the office to be filled, a letter or abreviation following the name of every candidate to indicate the name of the party which nominates him.

That this form of ballot is the form used in Australia, in the state of Massachusetts and elsewhere, and will remedy the greatest defect of the present law.

Your memorialists have seen with great pleasure that a bill has been introduced into the House of Representatives amending the present law in this direction, and in other important respects, and your memorialists urge upon your honorable bodies prompt and favorable action on this bill.

And they will ever pray, etc.

Weather Prediction.

A storm wave reached the Pacific coast about the 27th, crosses west of Rockies country by close of 28th, great central valleys March 1 to 3 eastern states March 4.

The warm wave will cross the great central valleys about March 1, eastern states March 3. Cool wave will cross the west of Rockies about March 2, the great central valley 4th, eastern states 6th, This disturbance will occur near the turn from the high to the low temperature storm period and as announced in last bulletin, low temperature may be expected about this time, the lowest since the last of January.

The temperature may, however, reach the lowest point from March 3d to 6th. This disturbance will also bring heavy rains south and snows north, and as the greatest amount of precipitation occurs near the high point of high temperature storm periods, and these periods turn toward the low temperature periods, this disturbance will conclude the heavy rains and snows for the present.

Drier weather will follow the above disturbance and many places will experience a fear of drought till the crest of the next high temperature period is reached, not far from March 24.

CAPITOL PLANS

Mr. Calvin Wells Gives the Governor His Views.

LIKE THE GROUPS IDEA

Would Open Competition to the Whole Country—Nothing in the Land Too Good—To Build for Coming Generations.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 26.—Calvin Wells, the Pittsburg manufacturer, was here to-day as the guest of Gov. D. H. Hastings, to talk over the plans for the new capitol. The governor said that Mr. Wells gave him some valuable information. The Pittsburger had this to say:

"I am firmly convinced that it would be a mistake to confine competition either in the matter of architects or builders to the State of Pennsylvania. We cannot afford to exhibit or countenance any display of insular prejudice as Pennsylvanians in this matter by regarding any citizen of any other State as a foreigner. We want a new capitol building that will honor the State, and to obtain this we should reach out for the best of everything that is obtainable.

"I am in favor of the group plan as suggested by Gov. Hastings. I don't think that the entire sum of money to be expended for this purpose should be put in one massive building. The lesson of the recent fire is a forcible illustration of the danger to which the archives of the State are constantly subject. The great importance of placing them in a more secure structure cannot be overestimated. A main building with departmental structures grouped around it would be effective and pleasing, both from the standpoint of utility and architectural beauty. I do not think that the architects should be required to furnish plans based upon any particular style of architecture, but should be left free to exercise their judgment and artistic tastes. The best plans could then be selected from the number submitted under these conditions. I think that the board of commissioners of public buildings and grounds should be placed in control of the work. They are officers elected directly by the people, and here in Harrisburg in discharge of their duties nearly all the year around, and are best fitted to know what is needed.

"I think that perhaps an emergency tax covering a period of three or four years would be the most available method in view of the inability of the state to contract a debt for such a purpose, under the legislation. Just what should be taxed is a subject for future consideration. There is one thing concerning which I am firmly convinced, and that is that we should not build for to-day or to-morrow, but for coming generations. I am in favor of economy but not parsimony, and I believe the people of the state are willing to spend a liberal sum of money and should secure public outbuildings that would be a credit to the commonwealth.

"In the building of this capitol there should be absolute freedom from any suspicion of jobbery. The Republicans cannot afford anything of the kind, and the people will hold them strictly to account in this respect. For this reason I think that the work of supervising the construction should be placed in the hands of a few men, the governor, auditor-general and state treasurer, thus doing away with cumbersome commissions and their attendant objections."

Gov. Hastings said that he expected John Chalfant and B. F. Jones of Allegheny to visit him next week. They have been in invited to talk over the capitol plans and the method of raising revenue. The proofs of loss for the burned building are now being printed, and the insurance will be paid in a short time. The statement furnished to the insurance companies by the state authorities places the loss on the building at $495,000 and on contents $253,070,21, making a total of $784,070,21. The cost of replacement of the old building is put at $365,000, and allowance of $130,000 is made for the interior improvements. About 100 insurance companies are interested. All the insurance was placed by George E. Wagner of Philadelphia. The total amount of insurance is $198,750, of which $150,000 is on the buildings and the balance on contents, leaving the net loss to the state $549,320,21.

Rescued Alive But Died Soon After.

Ashland, Feb. 25.—At the Gilberton Colliery yesterday afternoon the closing in of a chute imprisoned George Weeks, a miner, aged 20 years. A large gang of men immediately set to work to rescue their comrade, but their progress was slow, owing to the heavy fall of coal. They labored all night and until 8 o'clock this morning before the unfortunate man was liberated. He was constantly conversing with his rescuers during the night, but was almost suffocated, the air channels having been choked up. His legs were bruised, but beyond this he appeared to be all right. He was assisted to his home, where a physician was summoned, and while the doctor was treating his bruised leg Weeks fell over and expired in a few minutes. It is believed that he sustained internal injuries.

A Sleek Scoundrel.

The following from the Philipsburg Daily Journal explains how a boarding Mistress of that town was robbed of some valuables.

Thursday evening about 8 o'clock a sleek tongued, genteel young man, representing that he was engaged in the picture frame business, called at the resident of Mrs. D. H. Thomas, who keeps boarders, and engaged a weeks boarding. Thinking the individual all right, Mrs. Thomas consented to accomodate him, and he was given a room, where he stayed all night. He stated that he had just arrived on the 7:25 Beech Creek train and would have his baggage up in the morning. This morning, after eating his breakfast, he left the house, presumably for the purpose of going after his baggage. Soon after Mrs. thomas had occasion to go up stairs and was shocked to find that a silver watch, a gold guard, a double gold chain, a small gold locket, a gold ring, with garnet setting and a gold pen, with pearl handle, were missing. She suspicioned the stranger at once and started out in search of him, and made known the robbery to the officers, who also began to look for the young man, but up to this writing his whereabouts are unknown. Messages have been sent to adjoining towns in the hope of overtaking him. He is described as a young man, aged about 25 years, 5 feet 5 inches high, of light weight, smooth face, teeth prominent, wore dark clothes, dark overcoat, stiff hat, and combed his hair pompadour.

Got the Marble Heart.

New York, February 26.—W. J. Bryan did not have a large audience in Carnegie hall to-night to hear his lecture on "Money," but the audience was in a moderate degree enthusiastic, and a number of ladies were present and energetically applauded Mr. Bryan's sentiments.

After paying a feeling eulogy to the memory of the late William P. St. John, Mr. Bryan talked upon the money question and presented the same arguments as in his lectures in other cities.

THE United States Senate is composed of 66 Lawyers and the other 24 represent the different professions and the great army of people constituting the wealth producing classes of our country. Is it any wonder our laws are somewhat one-sided.

Altoonians Fight a Ghost.

Some time ago a Bellefonte, Pa., correspondent sent the following dispatch, which has been making the rounds of the press, to the New York Press:

This little town, Governor Daniel Hastings' home, has a ghost that has driven seven persons to the insane asylum. Some persons, braver than others, have ventured close and shot at the disembodied spirit. When the bullet strikes the ghost blue sparks fly in every direction.

This ghostly visitor for years has appeared regularly in the vicinity of the west end of Logan street. The ghost, according to Colonel Dunham, is nearly 50 years old, and not once has it failed in its annual visit. The colonel says that back in the 40's two brothers, named Flanigan, lived in the town and bore a black reputation as thieves and robbers. They were hunted so much that they picked up traps and went into Cambria county, where they murdered an aged widow. They were arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged. While awaiting executing the daughter of the sheriff of Cambria county fell in love with the younger Flanigan.

After fifteen years two men came to Bellefonte, occupying the Flanigan house. It became known that they were the Flanigan brothers, and an attempt was made to arrest them, but the men escaped and now are supposed to be dead.

It is where their house stood that the ghost holds forth. The Flanigans when they first moved to this place murdered an old peddler and buried his body under their house, where, some years ago, when the house was torn down, twelve skeletons were found.

It is the ghost of the peddler, so it is believed, that has frightened so many persons out of their wits. Early in the week Newton Westbrook and Dick Snyder, well known young men of Altoona, where in the town, and determined to end the ghost's career. They met the ghost and had a fierce one sided battle. All their efforts to kill or hurt the ghost were in vain and both men fainted from fright and exhaustion.

Mill Burned.

The roller mill at the Millheim narrows, known as Campbell's mill, now owned by W. H. Weaver, was burned Wednesday night.

The fire started between 12 and 1 o'clock. Origin of fire not known.

The loss is estimated at $3000, on which there is $1500 insurance in the Penn's Valley Company.

The mill with all its contents was destroyed; it stood right on the banks of Elk creek.

It was an old landmark, and in early years known as Hubler's Clover mill. After Elisha Campbell bought the property he converted it into a burr flouring mill. In the spring of the Johnstown flood, when the lower end of Millheim was washed away, this mill was twisted from its foundations by the flood and almost wrecked. Mr Campbell had it fixed on its proper place again, and subsequently changed to the roller system. It was run by water power.—Center Hall Reporter.

On the Perrine Grants.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The Senate committee on Public Lands to-night heard argument on the Perrine land grants in Florida, in which the step-father of Mrs. Cleveland is concerned. Mr. Brookshire argued for the settlers that the patents were not rightfully issued, because the Perrines had failed to comply with the conditions of the grant within the time prescribed in the act. Mr. Holcomb made the final argument in defense of the rights of the Perrine heirs.

A Brilliant Event.

The banquet given by the Moshannon Commandery, No. 74, Knights Templar, at the Masonic Hall, Philipsburg, Friday evening, was a most successful and brilliant event in every particular. The banquet was given in honor of a grand visitation by the Right Eminent Grand Commander of Knights Templar, E. Sir Samuel S. Yohe, of Easton, and of Division Commander W. I Fleming, of Constans Commandery, 33, of Bellefonte, Commander of Division No. 11, embracing the Huntingdon Commandery of Huntingdon; Constans Commandery, of Bellefonte, and Moshannon Commandery, of Philipsburg. Over 90 persons sat down to the sumptuous banquet, at which there were a number of very interesting speeches.

Among the guests present were: W. I. Fleming, Col. Wilbur F. Reeder, W. Homer Crissman, A. C. Mingle, S. M. Buck, of this city. Riley Pratt, of Unionville, Chas. T. Noll, Clearfield, and John P. Harris, jr. of Tyrone.

"McKinley" Was Rescued.

Kansas City, Feb. 25—There was commotion among the animals in the winter quarters of a circus at Argentine to-day, when one of the monster boa constrictors swallowed "McKinley," the only living baby lion born in captivity. "McKinley" is one of the twin lions born last October. His mate was named "Bryan," but died the day before election. To-day "McKinley" was slumbering when a boa constrictor slipped from his box, approached the cub lion from the rear and was soon busy gulping him down. The cub weighed 35 pounds and cried lustily. By the time the watchman had reached the scene only "McKinley's" nose and forepaws protruded. With a knife they split the boa constrictor and took "McKinley" out, not much the worse for his experience.

Burned While Asleep.

Kittanning, Feb. 25.—An explosion occurred at the MeterStation of the People's Natural Gas Company, of Pittsburg, at Fisher's Mills, ten miles from here. Sam Patrick, James Sheasley and John Becker were asleep when one of the gauges exploded. The escaping gas entered the front room, in which was a lighted stove, and ignited with terrific force, demolishing the building and fearfully burning the men.

THE LEGISLATURE IN SESSION

What They Did at Harrisburg on Thursday.

MANY BILLS READ IN PLACE

And the Senate Passes a Number Finally—The Members Get Tired Then and Adjourn Until Next Monday — Apportionment Bill Is Now In.

Harrisburg, Feb. 25.—President Pro Tem. McCarrell was in the chair at 11 o'clock this morning, when the senate was called to order.

From the committee on congressional apportionment Mr. Vaughan reported the congressional apportionment bill introduced by Mr. White, of Beaver, early in the session. The bill is the same one introduced in the session of 1895, and gives Pbiladelphia and Allegheny each an additionl congressman. The following bills were read in place:

By Mr. Sproul, to regulate and limit the charges for services or rental by any individual or company operating a telephone line or lines within this commonwealth. It establishes maximum rates over the state, and makes a reduction of 40 per centage in the Philadelphia charges.

By Mr. Stineman, appropriating $19,000 to the Conemaugh Valley Memorial hospital.

By Mr. Short, amending the act regulating the payment of traveling expenses of directors of the poor and county commissioners so that the expenses included in attending the state conventions of the associations will be met by the counties.

By Mr. Milleisen, to secure a pure, wholesome and unadulterated milk supply, and to provide for licensing milk producers an milk venders and for the appointment of milk and dairy inspectors.

These bills were passed finally: The first adds a penalty clause to the act providing for the better protection of female insane patients in transit. The second makes certified copies of records and transcripts of proceedings before magistrates, justices of the peace, aldermen, burgesses and courts of inferior jurisdiction evidence in courts of record. The third regulates the employment and provides the health and safety of persons employed where clothing, cigarettes, cigars and certain other articles are made, and that said articles be made under clean and healthful conditions.

By unanimous consent Mr. Andrews reported favorably from the committee on finance Mr. Kauffman's bill providing for the payment of 2 per cent. on daily balances made by banks on state moneys deposited in one bank in Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburg.

The latter part of the session was taken up in passing bills on first and second reading.

Messrs. Critchfield, Coyle and Merrick were appointed a committee on the part of the senate to investigate the affairs of the dairy and food commission.

Adjourned until Monday evening at 9 o'clock.

IN THE HOUSE.

A large number of reports of committees were received in the house to-day. The Crothers anti-trust bill was reported negatively.

A bill appropriating $4,471.80 for the expenses of the Heller-Laubach election contest was reported as committed, as was also the bill establishing a bureau of geology and mines.

Among the bills read in place were the following:

By Mr. Marshall, of Allegheny—A skeleton of the general appropriation bill, upon which to frame a measure.

By Mr. Sanner, of Somerset—Authorizing boroughs to adopt and construct sewage systems and to assess cost on abutting property owners.

B. Mr. Patterson, of Blair—Granting annuity to W. J. Pershing.

By Mr. Ford, of Allegheny—Establishing a state railroad commission. It provides for three commissioners to be appointed by the governor who shall have practical experience in railroad business.

By Mr. Griffiths, of Schuylkill—To protect policy holders insured under industrial life insurance policies or upon the weekly payment system.

On motion of Mr. Marshall, of Allegheny it was agreed that when the house adjourned to-day it be to meet at 8:30 Monday evening, as many of the members want to attend the Penrose banquet in Philadelphia to-morrow evening, which was explained as the reason for omitting the session to-morrow.

The bill for the better regulation of billiard saloons and ten pin alleys was killed on second reading.

Adjourned until 8.30 Monday evening.

Sudden Death for Two.

Stubenville, O., Feb. 25.—A frightful explosion of nitro-glycerin occurred at the magazine of the Gould oil field, three miles west of this city at noon. The explosion was felt for five miles in all directions. The magazine was a frame affair, in which a large iron safe for stowing explosives had been placed. Louis Crary had charge of the magazine. Eugene Ralston a telephone lineman, whose home is across the river, accompanied Crary to the magazine to-day.

What caused the explosion is unknown. The terrific roar was the first notice of the disaster, and when the frightened residence arrived at the spot there was only a vast hole in the earth where the magazine had stood. For 300 yards in all directions trees had branches torn off and the fence was demolished. Pieces of flesh, several bones, some hair of both men and pieces of clothing are all that can be found of the two victims. The houses of James Gracey, Rude Hook, John Featner and Joshua Hook were damaged, glass being broken in all the houses. Five hundred yards away Mrs. Joshua Hook was thrown from a chair, and Oliver Bucey was knocked down. Crary and Ralston both lived at Hollidays Cove, W. Va., and were unmarried.

A Slick Job.

Sharon, Pa., Feb. 25.—The house of a farmer named McMasters, near Kermis, this county, was entered by burglars during last night and they awakened McMasters attempting to chloroform him. The farmer grappled with one of his assailants and the other burglar came to his pal's assistance and between them they beat McMasters into unconsciousness. They then bound him and his wife and two children and ransacked the house. They secured several hundred dollars worth of plunder and made their escape, leaving no trace behind them. McMasters is in a serious condition from the beating he received.

Beaming with Smiles

Are the countenances of people who have found speedy and thorough relief from malarial, kidney, bilious, dyspeptic or nervous troubles through the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Such countenances are very numerous. So are letters from their owners attesting the efficacy of the great family medicine. Among the signals of distress thrown out by the stomach, bowels and liver in a state of disorder, are sick headache, heartburn, nausea, loss of appetite, sallowness of the skin and eyeballs, and an uncertain state of the bowels. They should be heeded at once. If the Bitters are resorted to the woe begone look which accompanies sickness will give way to cheerful looks produced by renewed health. If you are drifting on the coast of disease, throw an anchor to windward by summoning the Bitters to your assistance It will keep you in safety.

The Saint Paul A. M. E. church are holding their annual revival services at present. Rev. D. N. Coliman, of Williamsport, has been here all the week assisting in the services and the church surely has been greatly stirred by his efforts

Feb 26th 1897. Rev. D. N. Caliman announced for his text: Revelations 22. chapter 17th verse." And the Spirit and the Bride say come." From that text he preached a powerful sermon.

Off the Track.

A slight wreck occurred in Pennsylvania yards here Friday morning about nine o'clock. The local freight was taking several carloads of stone from McCalmont's quarries up to Valentine's furnace, when one of the cars jumped the track in front of the round house. The 9:28 passenger train was soon due, but they were only delayed about five minutes, as they were able to pass the wreck by going over the Y back of the round house.

An Aged Lady's Bad Fall.

Mrs. Ellen Cunningham, aged 91 years, who resides with her daughter, Miss Mary, on Bishop street, had a terrible fall Wednesday afternoon. She was in the act of going down into the cellar when she made a misstep and plunged headlong to the cellar floor, striking her head against a projecting stone in the foundation wall. Dr. Geo. F. Harris was sent for and found a wound in her scalp which required eleven stitches to close up. The old lady is reported to be resting easier to-day, and as she is possessed of wonderful vitality will no doubt soon be all right again.

—One of our exchange editors expresses his ideas of the word "We" as follows: "The editorial 'we' has a variety of applications. For instance, when you read that we expect our wife, we refer to the editor. When it is we are behind with our work, it means the whole office force, even the devil and the bouncer. If we are having a boom, the town is meant. We received over 7,000,000 immigrants last year means the nation. But we have hog cholera in our midst means the man who takes the paper and does not pay for it is very ill.

As a bill of similar purport has already passed the House there is every reason to believe that this bill will be agreed to by the House without serious opposition.

Clerical Editor Sued for Libel.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 26.—The first of a series of suits for libel was brought today against Rev. Dr. S. C. Swallow, of this city, editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist, for charges of corruption and malfeasance made against high State officials. The suits are the result of repeated conferences the past twenty-four hours at the Executive Mansion between Gov. Hastings, Auditor General Mylin, State Treasurer Haywood, who constitute the Board of Public Buildings and Grounds: State Senator J. P. S. Gobin, of Lebanon, and Representative W. F. Stewart of Philadelphia, representing the Soldiers' Orphans' School commission: Attorney General McCormick, Secretary of the Commonwealth Reeder, and Capt. John C. Delaney, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds.

The charges were that old materials were substituted for new articles purchased by the State; that there was criminal carelessness, if nothing worse, in the recent burning of the capitol; that the furnishings and furniture for the State are in use in private houses, and that articles have been furnished for soldiers' orphan' schools that cost the State eightfold more than reliable bidders were willing to furnish the same articles for.

Capt. J. C, Delaney, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, is prosecutor in one suit, Representative W. F Stewart, of Philadelphia, in the other.

Caught in a Rush of Coal.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 25.—George Weeks single, aged 22 years, of Gilberton, was caught in a rush of coal in the schute of a breast of the Gilbert colliery yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was imprisoned for fifteen hours before he was released. For four hours he could speak with his rescuers, who because of the intricate work of driving a tunnel through the loose body of coal worked in relays of one man at a time He encouraged them to continue their hazardous work. He was released from his perilous condition at 7 o'clock this morning, but was then unconscious. He was conveyed to his parent's home, after which he revived, but died one-half hour afterwards. His legs below the knees were paralyzed. He died of the shock and of the strain of the long confinement.

To Be Investigated.

Charges seriously affecting the official integrity of Special Food Commissioner F. N. Moore have been preferred by Geo. M. Hosack, of Pittsburg, and a resolution has been offered in the House at Harrisburg, proposing a joint Commission to investigate the conduct of the department, and especially the actions of F. N. Moore, special agent of the Dairy and Food department. The charges are made direct, but the presumption is there is some mistake. The following Moore's statement in reply:

Pittsburg, Feb. 19.—Frank N. Moore, special agent of the state pure food department, was seen to-night, and when asked about the Hosack resolutions said:

"I am ready to appear before the proposed committee when it may appoint a time for a hearing and to tell it all that I know. In fact, I am rather pleased that an investigation is asked for. It will afford an opportunity to furnish some information to the people of the state of the extent to which foods are adulterated and the amount of oleomargarine that is sold, and what elements deleterious to health it is made of, showing the necessity for such laws and their rigid enforcement. Regarding the insinuation that money is paid by dealers for immunity from prosecution I know nothing, but if it can be shown that any such a thing is, has been, or is being done, I am sure the knowledge will be gladly availed of by the department to run down the parties who assume to collect money for such purposes, as it ought to those who pay it. Personally, I have never received any consideration for such purposes, although tendered me frequently. So far as my conduct is concerned I am willing to have the light turned on at any time."

A President on Brand for Sickness

The President of the Baltimore Medical College, who has thoroughly tested Speer's wines and brandy, says:

I am prepared to bear testimony to the value of Speer's Climax Brandy as a pure and valuable article in all cases of disease in which a reliable stimulant is required. I regard it superior to most French Brandies. HARVEY L. BYRD. M. D. President and Professor of Obstetrice and Diseases of women and Children. Baltimore Medical College.

A Strange Elopment Case.

Constable Dunlap, of Nippenose Valley, made an arrest on Erie Mail Saturday morning, that resulted in the bringing forth of an interesting elopement story. The parties arrested were Mrs. Lizzie Weidler and her nephew, William Sweely, the former aged about 38 years and the latter about 19. Mrs Weidler and husband resided near Rauchtown and she and her nephew decidedto leave the home surroundings. On Friday they departed and arrived in Jersey Shore, having in their charge about $300 belonging to the husband. They were traced to this point and were found by the constable just as they had boarded the train. They were taken to Lock Haven and from there to Nippenose Valley, where they were to be given a hearing.—Gazette & Bullitin.

What use is there in eating when food does you no good—in fact, when it does you more harm than good, for such is the case if it is not digested?

If you have a loathing for food there is no use of forcing it down, for it will not be digested. You must restore the digestive organs to their natural strength and cause the food to be digested. when an appetite will come, and with it a relish for food.

The tired, languid feeling will give place to vigor and energy; then you will put flesh on your bones and become strong. The Shaker Digestive Cordial as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers contains food already digested and is a digester of foods as well. Its action is prompt and its effects permanent.

Dr. Mitchell Guilty

Somerset, February 26.—At 9 o'clock this morning the judge delivered his charge to the jury in the case against Dr. W. F. Mitchell, who has been on trial the past two days for causing the death of Miss Sadis Beal by performing a criminal operation.

The judge spoke for an hour, and at the end of that time the jury retired. There was nothing in the charge that would indicate the opinion of the court as to whether a verdict of conviction or acquittal would be most just. Points of law were elucidated, and the decision rested entirely upon the construction the jurors put upon the facts in the case as brought out.

The jury came in at 4.45 with "a verdict of guilty in manner and form as indicted."

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

A Force in Public Affairs and Potent for Entertainment and Instruction of Every Member of the Family.

A Colored Pictorial Supplement With Every Friday's Semi-Weekly.

THE NEW YORK SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE, the only Semi-Weekly newspaper which has maintained a successful existence in the United States, is printed every Tuesday and Friday. Regular subscription price $2 a year.

A newspaper of really high intellectual quality, printed in the largest and most legible type used in New York, a great, decent, self respecting and instructive journal, THE TRIBUNE is vigorous in support of Republican principles, but places country even above party and has recently won from the Democratic New York Sun the admission that by reason of its thoroughly American spirit, it "commands the respect of all parties" and "occupies a position of distinction in New York.

In directing attention, early and pointedly, to the availability of McKinley and Hobart for the Republican nominations in 1896, THE TRIBUNE played a well known and important part.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE prints the best news, book reviews, foreign letters, editorials, and special features of THE DAILY TRIBUNE. It has a charming page for women, excellent market reports and information for farmers, a department of Science and Mechanics in which poor inventors can exploit their inventions, free of charge, and a great variety of stories and entertaining miscellany. Never unprofitable, full of what is useful and inspiring, every reader of THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE feels that he is in touch with the bustle and best of life.

Men and women leading busy lives have little opportunity for vacation; and for their entertainment and the amusement of the young, the TRIBUNE will hereafter issue, with every Friday's SEMI-WEEKLY, a colored serio-comic pictorial supplement of 16 pages, entitled "TWINKLES." But in order to possess "TWINKLES" a subscriber must hereafter remit the full sum of the SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE—$2 a year—to THE TRIBUNE itself direct.

"TWINKLES" is handsomely printed on superfine paper; and every one of its 16 pages is filled with jokes, witty paragraphs, and gossip about noted people, sprinkled amongst which are fifty or more political or other cartoons, in several colors, half-tone portraits of well known men and women (life-like as photographs), and humorous pen drawings. There is not a word or a picture unfit for the family; and the amusing contents of "TWINKLES" will prove a welcome addition to the more serious contents of the paper.

"TWINKLES" is virtually a five cent comic weekly, price 5 cents a copy; $2 a year. But it is given free to every one who orders the SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE for one year and remits to THE TRIBUNE direct, the regular subscription price of $2 a year. He thus gets two $2 papers for the price of one. This is a bargain, considering that the TRIBUNE is incapable of sending into any family anything which is unfit to be read there.

Sample copies of Friday's SEMI-WEEKLY free.

Those who do not remit $2 to THE TRIBUNE direct will not receive the colored supplement.

THE NEW COUNCIL ORGANIZE.

Choose Officers for Ensuing Year—Will Build a Public Building.

The adjourned meeting of the new Council, which organized Monday morning, met again at 7.35 in the evening. Before the meeting was called to order Thomas Shaughensy, Jr., arose and on behalf of the Logan Fire company presented President Hillibish with a new gavel made partly from a block of wood taken from the present hose house building. He said he hoped that whenever the President lifted that gavel he would be reminded of the fact that the Logan Hose company needs a new building. It is also a relic of the building in which they have spent so many years.

President Hillibish thanked Mr. Shaughensy and the Fire company, on behalf of the Council, for their gift and then called the meeting to order for regular business. The clerk read the minutes of the morning meeting, which were approved.

The following members, constituting a quorum, were present: Hillibish, Gerberich, Valentine, Shortlidge, Lowery, Gerrity, Shaeffer, Brachbill and Keller.

The following committees were appointed by President Hillibish:

Finance—Messrs. Keller, Gerberich, Lowery.

Street—Messrs. Brachbill, Shortlidge, Shaeffer.

Water—Messrs. Gerberich, Valenline, Lowery.

Fire and Police—Messrs. Valentine, Shaeffer, Brachbill.

Market—Messrs. Lowery, Shaeffer, Brachbill.

Nuisance—Messrs. Shortlidge, Shaeffer, Gerrity.

Village Improvement—Messrs. Keller, Shortlidge, Gerrity.

Thomas Shaughensy, Jr., then addressed the Council in favor of a new bnilding for the Logan Hose company. The present building is very much out of repair, and the engine and apparatus is very much in danger of being injured. The boys would take a great interest in the work if they had a decent building to go to.

Verbal communications were received from Joel Johnson and Wm. Fredericks requesting the appointment of street commissioner.

F. W. Crider offered room in the Exchange for use of Council at $125.00 per year, heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

Bond of John Trafford, Overseer of the Poor, was offered for approval.

Mr Brachbill moved that Council erect a suitable Borough building, to be occupied by the Logan Fire company and the Council. Mr. Gerberich seconded this motion. Carried.

The town owns a lot on Howard street, where the Hook and Ladder house now stands, and the next thing was to decide what kind of a building to put up.

Mr. Keller made a motion that a committee of three be appointed, with general conference powers, to consult with architects and builders in regard to a building, and report same to Council at next meeting.

Messrs. Keller, Shaeffer and Valentine were appointed as this committee.

The election of a Street Commissioner was held over until next meeting night.

On the recommendation of the Water committee Samuel Rine was re-elected engineer at the water works and superintendent of pipes for the ensuing year.

J. H. Wetzel was re-elected Borough engineer.

The bond of John Trafford, for $500.00, was approved.

The communication of Mr. Crider was laid aside for future consideration.

Clement Dale, Esq., was re-elected Borough solicitor.

Mr. Brachbill moved that the present police force be retained unti next meeting night. Carried.

Mr. Shortlidge made an earnest talk in favor of a more efficient police force. Better discipline should be required. All winter long boys have been allowed to congregate over at the United Brethren church and interfere with the services and insult the passers, by using the most profane kind of language. During the summer time a woman can hardly cross either of the High street bridges without being insulted by hearing some foul oath. Our police should be compelled to see to it that this kind of thing is stopped.

This closed the business for the evening and the meeting was declared adjourned.

Nittany Rod and Gun Club.

Several Bellefonte and Lock Haven gentlemen and others associated with them have started a movement to establish a quail preserve in Nittany Valley, and will form an association to be known as the "Nittany Valley Rod and Gun Club." The object of the association is to secure a quail preserve in Nittany Valley, embracing an area of about thirty square miles, and to stock the same each spring with 1,000 Western quail, so that they will have about 5,000 to 8,000 birds for the fall shooting; also to secure seven miles of Little Fishing creek, from Hecla Gap west, and to stock the same with about 50,000 trout each year. The club will also build a large club house at or near Hecla Gap, situated in about the middle of the game preserve. It will contain a banqueting hall, bath room and sleeping apartments. The initiation fee to the club will be $100.

Cronister Wins.

E. R. Chambers Esq. the attorney for the petitioners in the Cronister and Miller Sharivality contest arose in court on Tuesday and requested permission to withdraw their petition. He stated that a great deal of the evidence which they had hoped to offer they were unable to substantiate. There were a great many illegal votes cast on both sides but the last count will give Cronister a majority of eleven votes. For these reasons and to save any further expense they prayed the court to set aside the petition.

Bring the New Penitentiary to Centre County.

We publish a notice elsewhere at the request of the officers of the Board of Trade, calling the attention of our citizens, and business men in particular, to the fact, that the Bellefonte Central R. R. is now completed and in operation to Fine Grove Mills. This brings the people of Furgeson Township, as well as the people of Stone Valley, Huntingdon county more conveniently to trade in Bellefonte, than any other town within access to them. To increase the interest with these people, and become more intimately acquainted, it is proposed that the people of Bellefonte shall make an excursion to Pine Grove Mills and spend a few hours there some afternoon and evening, where they will join in a social lunch and show to them, that our interests are their interests and their interests are our interesters. The more friendly our relations, the more inducement there will be for our farmer and country friends generally to come and increase their dealings with us. We do not want to keep at arm's length. We want more social and friendly relations and the best way to bring this about is for the people here to visit the homes of those at the other end of the line, who no doubt, will give us a cordial welcome.

It is proposed to build a new Penitentiary for the Central part of Pennsylvania, and many of the localities within the described territory are, making an effort to have the new institution located in their particular vicinity. A great advantage of a Penitentiary in a farming community, is, that it makes a market for farm produce, which is very much needed at Bellefonte at this time. If we had consumers in Bellefonte and vicinity, who would be able to purchase and consume the farmers produce, that will naturally come to this place, the farmers would soon prosper as they have never prospered before. The farmers in the vicinity of Altoona and Williamsport, Pa., attend those markets for a distance of twenty miles or more, where they sell their produce to consumers and realize the cash, which is always very desirable when a farmer sells anything. Every farmer in the county is now interested in using his efforts to have the new Penitentiary built in Centre county, and we learn that the business men of our town, as well as many others are using extraordinary efforts to bring the committee here, when they will show them the advantages of locating the institution in our midst. The great object of having this institution in our county is the advantages it will give to all our people in marketing their home products, which is now so much needed by every producer, who has anything for sale.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention the REPUBLICAN and send your full post office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y. Funeral of Miss Nannie White.

The last sad rites were said over the remains of the late Nannie White at 8 o'clock Saturday morning in St. John's Episcopal church on Allegheny street. There was a large attendance of sorrowing friends, and the beautiful casket was fairly covered with the flowers that loving hands had placed there. Among the floral offerings was a beautiful cross from her school friends at the Academy.

A solemn and affecting funeral sermon was preached by the rector of the church, Rev. Robt. E. Wright.

The pall-bearers were Josph L. Montgomery, Edwin F. Garman, J. Malcolm Laurie and Jas. R. Hughes.

After the service the remains were taken to the station and placed on the 9.28 train for Williamsport, where interment was made in the family lot at that place.

An Exciting Runaway.

Saturday about 9 o'clock an exciting runaway occurred on Water street. A horse and buggy belonging to Thomas A. Shoemaker was being brought to town by one of his employees; when in front of the depot of the Central railroad, on Water street, the horse became frightened and gave a sudden plunge, throwing the driver out and upsetting the buggy on top of him. Both shafts broke and the traces gave way; the horse being thus free, ran at a breakneck speed up Water street. It was finally caught near Jackson's mill, and was found to be none the worse for the run.
